HYBRID SUMMER SCHOOL

Mass protests are widely accepted as a common form of “unconventional” political participation in democracies. However, they also play a critical role in the transition of authoritarian regimes towards democracies, often serving as a necessary first step in the transformation. This summer school focuses on an appraisal of the role of collective mobilization in regime transition processes. In particular, we will focus on the following four issues:

1. Remembering, Commemorating and Reappraising;
2. Workers' Uprisings in Russia, Germany and Eastern Europe;
3. Forgotten Revolutions,
4. Arab Spring and the Revolutionary Power of Youth.

We cover hotel fees, catering and travel expenses (in line with the German Travel Expense Act)

WHO CAN APPLY?

We invite advanced students and PhD-candidates from Germany and Europe to engage with the role of collective mass mobilization for regime-transformation and democratization processes.

HOW TO APPLY?

1. Application Form
2. Brief outline of your motivation and your research interest
3. Curriculum Vitae

Your application must be submitted in English.

DEADLINE – MAY 19TH 2023
